The Purpose of this Role: -

- We promote a relationship based experience of receiving care and support that enables a more natural life, promotes choice, control, independence and meets the social and emotional needs of the people we support.
- Improved listening and assessment. We understand 'what matters' and we know the person 'ordinarily'. In this context person centered support is only ever about the individual and founded on the person's individual needs for autonomy, inclusion, identity, attachment and comfort.
- Making it home. We recognise that "home" is different to us all and our homes reflect who we are as an individual. For those that live and stay at Severn View we will support the person to create a home and be at home; what comfort, security and individuality is to you. Shared areas will reflect the people who live in the home and their preferences.
- Services support the spirit of the person. We will place equal importance on the social and emotional well-being of the person as well as their physical well-being.
- Services support families, friends and other important people to remain involved they will feel involved and listened to and encouraged to actively advocate for their loved ones.
